Your Degree Option

The Family Studies and Human Services degree is focused at the undergraduate level on the study of individuals and families from a multidisciplinary perspective. Studies emphasize developmental processes throughout the life cycle, interpersonal relationships, personal financial planning, and educational programming for children and families. The degree prepares you for a career working with people— young and old, men and women.

Your Career

Graduates in Family Studies and Human Services are respected for their excellent educational background in the human sciences, including the experience they have gained through community service and field work. Many go directly to professional positions in youth and adult service agencies, health care organizations, college financial aid offices, state and federal social service departments, financial counseling centers, and many other businesses and organizations. Others attend graduate school. They make a difference in people's lives by helping them live happier, healthier, and more productive lives.

Get Started

The degree map on the reverse page will show you a listing of classes you need to take from Pratt Community College and K-State to complete the Social Work and Family Studies and Human Services 2+2. This degree map has been reviewed and accepted by both schools as an illustration, which is subject to change. Many other combinations of courses may be possible, so students should contact a K-State representative or their community college advisor before committing to a particular transfer program.

Bachelor's Degree, and beyond

Take the next step! Check out K-State's options for going beyond your bachelor's and toward an online graduate degree. Consult with your advisor to find a program that best fits your needs.

Note: Kansas Board of Regents requirements have been incorporated into this degree plan, including the following rules governing bachelor's degrees:

- A bachelor's degree must include at least 120 credit hours;
- It must have at least 60 credit hours earned from an institution where the majority of degrees granted are at the bachelor's degree level or higher;
- It must include at least 45 credit hours at the junior level (numbered 300) or higher;
- Each student must successfully complete credit-bearing courses/experiences to cover all of the K-State 8 areas.

Kansas State University will accept up to one-half of the required credit hours from the community college toward the bachelor's degree.
