Need help figuring out your finances?

Powercat Financial Counseling (PFC), based in the K-State Student Union, provides free, confidential financial counseling for undergraduate and graduate students, with services specifically for distance education students.

PFC can help you learn how to create a budget or savings plan, manage your debt, review your credit report, deal with identity theft, analyze your student loan repayment and consolidation options, and review insurance and employee benefits.

Current distance students who cannot travel to campus for financial education sessions can take advantage of PFC's live and unrecorded online video financial counseling using Skype or via the phone.

Services include: individual sessions with a professional advisor or a trained Peer Financial Counselor student volunteer, presentations on financial topics, information and educational materials on personal finance issues, and useful links to financial resources.

More information about what PFC offers, how to set up an appointment, and the financial counseling process for distance students can be viewed at www.k-state.edu/pfc.

University General Education Program Transitioning to K-State 8 Program

Keep hearing about K-State 8? The University General Education (UGE) program for all undergraduate students is changing to the K-State 8 program beginning this fall. The courses will help expose students to a broad range of knowledge in eight crucial academic areas.

Through the K-State 8 program, one course must be taken in: Aesthetic Experience and Interpretive Understanding; Empirical and Quantitative Reasoning; Ethical Reasoning and Responsibility; Global Issues and Perspectives; Historical Perspectives; Human Diversity within the U.S.; Natural and Physical Sciences; and Social Sciences.

If you've already started at K-State before Summer 2011, you can choose whether you want to move to the K-State 8 program or complete your original UGE requirements. Courses that meet one of the K-State 8 requirement areas are indicated in iSIS.
